

Happenings in World on Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was a weekend of Viet Nam rallies, demonstrations, dates — and a pre-nuptial party.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told an "Affirmation: Viet Nam" rally in Atlanta: "Let us consult our courage — and not our fears!"

Rain fell on the Atlanta stadium crowd, estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000. A small group of antiwar pickets paraded outside the stadium Saturday.

Eggs were tossed at about 60 antiwar pickets in New Orleans, where they demonstrated in a drizzling rain.

At Gainesville, Fla., four U.S. veterans of the Viet Nam combat were feted by students at the University of Florida. The veterans' dates were campus beauty queens. About 35 antiwar pickets were jeered by students.

Other weekend Viet Nam developments: In Washington, a Maritime Administration official said the United States has begun blacklisting free world and Polish ships which trade with North Viet Nam.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived in Bangkok from Saigon to confer with Thai officials. It was learned Humphrey brought reassurances to Thai leaders that the United States intends to stand firm against communism in Southeast Asia.

The State Department warned North Viet Nam not to stage criminal trials of captured American servicemen. About 60 American fliers are in Hanoi's hands. Another 46 are listed as missing and presumed alive.

Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, says he believes "there is gold" in the form of militarily acceptable manpower among about two million men classified 1Y — qualified for military service only in time of national emergency.

In Santo Domingo, a U.S. 82nd Airborne paratrooper was shot and gravely wounded Saturday night as gunfire and explosions rocked the city for the fourth consecutive night.

Several women among 96 Cubans aboard an airliner taking them to exile in Costa Rica fainted when greeted by kinfolk during a Miami stopover Saturday. Others unsuccessfully clamored to be allowed to stay.

Some 600 worshippers at a Detroit synagogue watched helplessly Saturday as a congregational member, Richard Wishnitsky, 23, shot and critically wounded Rabbi Morris Adler, a prominent clergyman. The youth then shot himself in the head and was hospitalized in critical condition.

In Rome, Pope Paul VI said he will reorganize his special birth control commission to speed its decision on whether to recommend changes in the Roman Catholic Church stand on contraception.

President Johnson laid a wreath at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington Saturday and said that in the past year "America has made unprecedented progress in fulfilling the ideal for which Abraham Lincoln stands."

Johnson paid a 35-minute visit Saturday night to a hearts and flowers pre-nuptial party for daughter Luci and her fiancé, Pat Nugent, in Washington's fashionable Georgetown section. Mrs. Johnson and her future in-laws, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Nugent, had been on hand for the entire evening.

Oaklawn Season Is Underway

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — An eight-race card composed entirely of sprints ushered in the first full week of the new horse racing season at Oaklawn Park today.

A field of six was lined up for the $5,000 feature, with O. T. Hogan's Mr. B's Sister, a recent arrival from Santa Anita, expected to make a strong bid for the role of favorite.

The winner of 14 races a juvenile was unplaced in four outings at Santa Anita but the competition there was keen.

Top weight of 120 pounds was assigned to Carol "V" Farm's Carol's Witty, four more than assigned to Mr. B's Sister.

Rounding out the short field was Marion H. Van Berg's Seven Circles, W. Hal Bishop's Grace M. Bardon H. Ford's Baby Lullaby and W. F. Lucas' Squaw Line.

Oak Hill Farm's King of Kentucky overtook C. O. Vair's Bay Phantom in the closing strides and won by a head in the $10,000 Inaugural Handicap on opening day Saturday.

Third choice in the betting, the winner covered the 5 1/2 furlongs in 1:05 4-5 and returned $10.60, $4.20 and $3.

A record $872,888 was wagered, but steady rains held first-day attendance to 15,829.

A new track record went on the Oaklawn books as V. G. Spivey's Onward Upward completed a five-furlong event in 59 2-5 seconds.

The record for the distance, which had not been used at Oaklawn for more than a half-century, was 1:00 4-5, set by All Back in 1906.

C. O. Vair's Gypsy Ben erased the 1906 mark in the first race with a time of one minute. In the fifth race C. C. Madden's Marble Champ cut the time to 59 4-5 seconds. Onward Upward set his mark in the seventh.

Americans Have Much More Cash

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans have more cold cash jingling in their pockets and stuffed in their billfolds than they did five years ago.

The business boom is only part of the answer for the proportionate increase.

The Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond, Va., part of the agency which distributes coins and paper money, has come up with some explanations. More teen-age spending, to name one, but most factors lack accurate measurement.

John K. Carlock, fiscal assistant secretary of the Treasury, said only theories can be advanced to explain the phenomenon and one theory is probably as good as another.

Hard cash makes up only about 20 per cent of the total money supply. The rest consists of timely deposits, mainly checking accounts.

Here are some of the cold facts:

On June 30, 1960, the total currency in circulation was valued at $32.06 billion compared with $41.82 billion last Nov. 30, the most recent date for which Treasury figures are available. This represented a per capita jump from $177.47 to $213.79.

Treasury officials said the increase has nothing to do with any trend toward inflation, which is a much broader problem of production, supply and demand, over-all fiscal policy and a variety of other factors.

Two definite developments in the new pattern, the bank reported, are the increased demand for coins and an upturn in the business cycle.

The remaining possible causes, the bank added, are less measurable. It listed them as:

1. The demand for pocket money by the increasing number of teen-agers who hold jobs or receive allowances. The number of teen-agers between 15 and 19 increased by 3.5 million between 1960 and 1965—some 26 per cent above the increase for the previous five years.

2. Increased travel, both domestic and foreign, which prompts Americans to carry more ready cash than normal. Bank reported that although travelers checks are widely used by travelers most still find it convenient to carry more currency than they normally would at home.

3. Possible hoarding of American currency abroad to offset sometimes shaky currencies in emerging countries.

4. Internal Revenue Service policies, including a crackdown on federal gambling tax collections and use of computers to check income tax returns.

"Persons who were evading the gambling and income taxes may have been sufficiently impressed by these two policies to switch to a currency basis for conducting their business rather than depositing their funds in banks," the bank said.

5. Strong and steady increases, especially since 1961, in personal income, savings and public holdings of liquid assets.

The rising use of credit cards and higher interest rates are factors in the opposite direction, the bank said, but pressures toward bigger holdings of hard cash were much stronger.

One Treasury spokesman summed up the whole situation in one word — affluence.

Jack rabbits can run at a speed of 45 miles per hour.

Isaac B. Newton, 52, of Milford, Del., didn't believe such a car existed before he drove the new Mercury.

Here's what he said about some of the discoveries he made, after looking over the full line: About the power steering*, he said: "Drives with such little effort and so stable on the road! Made parking a cinch."

About the 410-cu.-in. 4-barrel V-8 power plant: "So quiet! Can't hear it at all. That pickup's really terrific!"

He summed up: "Mercury's my choice after that ride!"

And what did Mrs. Newton discover? "Living room comfort! And the lines of the car are so beautiful."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The three major television networks are now frantically putting together entertainment schedules for the new season that starts in September. To make room for new shows about 30 old ones, as usual, will disappear.

NBC expects to have its schedule in shape by the end of next week. CBS will make its decisions a short time later. ABC hopes to keep its plans a secret until the end of March for a splashy announcement.

Few new shows have actually been announced. ABC is firmly committed to an anthology series called "ABC 66." Its new Milton Berle variety hour probably will precede Lawrence Welk on Saturday nights.

NBC's almost definite prospects include some new adventures of "Tarzan," a spin-off of an established show called "The Girl from U.N.C.L.E.," a suspense series titled "T.H.E. Cat," which is the hero's name, and a series about a policeman called "My 15 Blocks" starring Dean Jones.

CBS seems likely to surface with a new show for Garry Moore but is yet to make final choices from some 22 pilots it has ordered.

More interesting at this time, however, is the list of likely candidates for network oblivion. CBS has already lost Dick Van Dyke to movies and Jackie Gleason to a sabbatical year. Lucille Ball still is resisting the prospect of another season with her series. There is doubt whether "Hazel" will go for another year, primarily because star Shirley Booth has not been in good health lately.

Almost certainly, there will be no return for "Perry Mason," "The Smothers Brothers Show," "The Loner" and "Hollywood Talent Scouts."

NBC will probably drop "Wackiest Ship in the Army," "Dr. Kildare," "The John Forsythe Show," "Hullabaloo," "My Mother the Car," "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," "Camp Runamuck," "Hank" and "Mr. Roberts."

ABC, which has already dispatched "Ben Casey" and "The Jimmy Dean Show," is not expected to renew "The Patty Duke Show," "Gidget," "The Flintstones," "Tammy," "Honey West," "The Donna Reed Show" and "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet."

Temporary Marriage of Press Clubs

By FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP)—A Valentine party honoring recently retired reporter May Craig as "everybody's sweetheart" has brought about a temporary marriage of Washington's men's and women's press clubs.

The merger tickled May. She is "deeply touched."

In the span of years she covered five presidents, women rarely were allowed to cover events with such equality in the all-male National Press Club.

There is no plan for the two clubs to stay married. But it was all hearts and flowers as they jointly arranged for May's Valentine — a cocktail party and roast beef dinner tonight in the ballroom of the National Press Club for about 400 reporters, friends and VIPs.

May's own marriage gave them plenty of precedent. Her late husband, newsman Donald Craig, who was killed in an auto accident on a trip covering President Warren G. Harding, had been a founder of the National Press Club. May was president of the Women's National Press Club from 1943 to 1944.

In her more than 30 years working as Washington correspondent for the Guy Gansett newspapers of Maine, May had done some battling for feminine rights herself. She led one fight for equal space — for ladies rooms — in the House and Senate press galleries.

She fought down prejudice to become the lone woman allowed aboard an all-male aircraft carrier to cover events of World War II. She scored plenty of "firsts," including, she says, being the first woman to fly over the North Pole. That title was clouded a bit though, May admits, by an Army nurse's claim to a similar exploit.

Castro Talking for Revolutions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — Latin Americans have the right to overthrow their governments and anyone who helps them is not guilty of intervention, Fidel Castro says.

In an eight-page letter Thursday to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, the Cuban prime minister rejected charges made by 18 Latin-American governments that the Havana conference of revolutionaries last month intervened in their domestic affairs.

U.N. delegates of every major Latin-American country but Mexico said in a letter to the Security Council Monday that the Havana conference violated the sovereignty of U.N. members by promoting violent revolution.

Castro brushed aside the charges and said these 18 governments "constitute just the most servile instruments of Yankee imperialism in Latin America."

HELEN HELP US!

—by Helen Bottel—

Welcome, Y'all. . . .

Dear Helen: I hope this reaches you by Valentine's Day, as it comes from the heart.

When we were transferred from Louisiana to California, I was scared to death of the move because I'd heard down South that Northern people resented us. My friends told me we'd better cut down on the "reckons" and "y'all's," because feeling was very high against all Southerners.

Well, I'm here to shout War Between the States is dead, if my neighbors and our new town are any indication. Even when I was looking for slight or slur (and I did come here with a chip on my shoulder), I found none and neither did my family.

First day we moved in, a neighbor brought over a hot meal, others offered furniture until ours arrived. I really had to chuckle when I saw our little girl with her new friends. Instead of making fun of her accent, they kept saying, "Hey, Laura, talk som'more." And everyone of them has started to draw.

Here's one vote for California from a — Transplant

Dear Transplant: You aren't from Sacramento, California, but you might well be, for hundreds of Mobile, Alabama, transplants here agree with you.

With the phasing out of a Mobile Air Force Base, some 500 deep South families transferred to McClellan AFB near my city. I interviewed a number of the wives for a local newspaper story and found unanimous agreement: a bit of homesickness, yes; prejudice, no! They were amazed at Western friendliness and acceptance because they really hadn't expected it. And their children adjusted fast to local schools.

One gal said she bought $25 worth of groceries at a big supermarket, and then—total embarrassment: no cash, and her checkbook was in another purse. Said the clerk, "That's okay, bring it in tomorrow — y'all."

"People purely LISTEN to us here," another added. "We get some good natured kidding about our accents, but it's all in fun."

Thanks for writing, Southerner. You gave me a change to promote my adopted town and State, and that makes me as happy as the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce on a smog-free day.

Welcome, y'all H.
Hole in One Insurance?
Dear Helen: They say a hole in one on the golf course is the charge of a lifetime. It can also put you IN the hole and if it doesn't electrify your wife, it cost me about a hundred bucks.
The drinks are on YOU when you make that lucky shot, and today thirsty elbow benders came out of the woodwork. I never saw such a crowd at the bar!
Would you please inform my wife that I had to buy drinks around? She thinks I did it just for fun. — Birdies Preferred.
Dear B.P.: Consider her told. Buying drinks for the crowd is customary when you make an hole in one. But isn't there insurance for the long-shot chance and cheap too. Next time, be prepared. H.

CHICAGO, ILL. Saluting National Children's Dental Health Week, February 6-12, The Great Zeeb, popular children's tooth care symbol, tells Karen Kelly, 4, how to "Keep a Smile for Your Future." Bobcats Use Fast Break on Magnolia

By LARRY DON WRIGHT

Hope Star Sports Writer

Balanced scoring and a devastating fast break sent the Bobcats racing past the Magnolia Panthers, 81 to 66, in a 4AA game played in Jones Field House Saturday night.

Each of Hope's starting five players scored in double figures as the Bobcats rebounded in fitting fashion from a discouraging defeat at the hands of Smackover on Friday.

The beautifully executed fast break of the Cats accounted directly for 14 straight points in the fourth quarter when the locals really began to pour it on.

The fast break was justly complemented by a superb defensive effort by Hope putting it on the Panthers man for man.

The Cats grabbed the lead for good with just over a minute remaining in the first period and then gradually increased it little by little through the third quarter.

Everyone was sharing in the scoring as the Cats hit Magnolia in every possible way, lay ups, jump shots from the corner set shots from the top of the circle, free throws, and even tip ins.

After three periods of play Hope had carved a nine point lead, 58-49. That's when the fast break began.

The next seven field goals were attributed completely to a very effective fast break. With 2:12 left in the game Hope commanded a sudden 22 point advantage.

The subs played out the rest of the game and boosted the total to over the 80 point mark.

It was the most points scored by the Cats this year and marked the sixth win against four losses in conference action.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—If baseball figures it is in a mess now with the Milwaukee-Atlanta case, think what it would be like if the courts ruled in favor of returning to Milwaukee...

Season ticket sales in Atlanta are close to the million-dollar mark... The Braves and two airlines have started a joint promotion to lure customers and fans from all over the southern states to Atlanta... Braves tickets actually can be purchased at any of the airline ticket counters...

In addition, an extensive radio-television promotion has already started in North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, northern Florida and Georgia...

"We've even had the stenciling on our equipment bags changed," a Braves official said... It was a sad attempt at being funny...

The Milwaukee-Atlanta switch seems to be the top conversational item, even among the track and field people who usually are completely immersed in split times or statistics...

At a luncheon in New York, Chic Werner, director of the United States Track and Field Federation, was explaining that a championship meet scheduled for Milwaukee had to be canceled when the arena was not available...

"That's all right," someone shouted from the audience, "anything out of Milwaukee will be welcome in Atlanta..." John Pennel, the pole vaulter, is an easy mark for the autograph hunters, even though Pennel, as a kid, loathed chasing an athlete...

Which helps to explain his surprise when Sandy Koufax, at a sports dinner, approached Pennel and requested his autograph...

"I didn't quite know what to do," Pennel said, "so I signed and asked him for his..." It's one of the few times in my life I did that...

Leaders Seek to Nail Down Title Spots

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

A number of the nation's top college basketball teams can take some giant steps toward spots in the NCAA national tournament on a key schedule tonight, while one conference is just waiting for time to count them out all together.

Such standouts as Kentucky, Duke, Chicago Loyola, Texas Western and Providence seek to nail down conference or at-large spots in the first-round tourney schedules, or at least improve their already very good chances in games tonight.

The important action Tuesday is off the court and on the conference table. That's the deadline for the Ivy League—and others—to file certification that they will abide by a controversial NCAA rule establishing a grade minimum for athletes.

The Ivies have announced they won't do it. And the NCAA has said that if they don't, they are ineligible for NCAA championship events—including the basketball tourney.

Just what will happen to the Ivy spot in the NCAA tourney is still open to question—whether it will be filled by an at-large team, or whether it won't be filled at all.

But while the athletic brass wrestle with that administrative problem, solutions of a more basic nature will be forged on a number of courts tonight.

Top-ranked Kentucky, eyeing a fifth national title, takes its 19-0 record to Alabama in quest of its 11th straight SEC victory. A victory, and the Wildcats are favored, would just about put them out of reach of the rest of the league.

Vanderbilt, ranked fifth in the nation at 17-3, has the best chance. The Commodores are 8-2 in the conference and have a game against Auburn tonight.

Duke, No. 2, is at home to South Carolina and figures to improve on its 9-1 league record and 17-2 over-all. The Blue Devils, of course, must survive the league's post-season tourney to make it to the NCAA.

Three other members of the top 10, all shooting for at-large berths and all practically certain of making them, are in action. No. 3 Chicago Loyola, 17-2, is at home to Western Michigan, No. 4 Texas Western, 18-0, is at home to Arizona State, and No. 6 Providence, 17-2, goes to DePaul.

Texas Western had its hands full at New Mexico Saturday night. The Miners were down by 20 points at one stage and had to go to overtime before pulling out a 67-64 victory.

Other members of the top 10 had a much easier time of it. Kentucky took Auburn 77-64, Duke crushed Virginia 81-55, Chicago Loyola routed St. John's, Minn., 106-77, Vanderbilt beat Alabama 71-63, Providence whipped St. Bonaventure 83-62, No. 7 Kansas defeated Oklahoma State 59-38, No. 9 Nebraska stopped Iowa State 81-70 and No. 10 Michigan outscored Wisconsin 120-102.

No. 8 St. Joseph's, Pa., did not play Saturday. The individual honors went to Houston sophomore Elvin Hayes, who scored 55 points in a 140-87 rout of Southwestern of Texas. It was a season high for an individual in a major game.

Michigan's triumph lifted the Wolverines into the Big Ten lead at 7-1, while Nebraska maintained the Big Eight lead at 8-0.

In a scattering of Sunday afternoon games, Baylor edged Duquesne 79-75, Seattle clubbed Portland 82-69 and Catholic edged Georgetown 87-84.

Auerback Is Stepping Out as Coach

BOSTON (AP) — Arnold

(Red) Auerbach, the most successful pro basketball coach in history, is stepping out as boss of the Boston Celtics with regret and the admission he isn't quite as tough as he appears.

The fiery Auerbach, graying and balding at the age of 48, shed a couple of tears Sunday as he was hailed and showered with gifts at halftime of the Celtics' 120-110 National Basketball Association loss to Los Angeles. A Boston Garden crowd of 10,679 and a national television audience watched the festivities.

"This is just making it tougher to retire," said Auerbach, who plans to move into the Celtics' front office on a full-time basis after this season. "But I'm going to retire. I have to."

Auerbach was rather quiet in the first half as the Celtics rallied to trail only 63-59 at the intermission. After the emotion-packed salute, though, he became his old self, drawing a technical foul for protesting an official's call.

NFL Stocking Leagues New Addition

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) —

The expansion-minded world of professional sports will have its eye on the National Football League today when the owners tackle the job of stocking their newest baby, the Atlanta Falcons, with 42 veteran players.

In ordinary times, only the cities involved and the men who reportedly have a $8.5-million stake in Atlanta would be vitally interested. However, in this day of proposed expansion in baseball, hockey and basketball, every move to stock a new team is observed closely.

Baseball, deeply involved in a legal battle over the Braves' shift from Milwaukee to Atlanta, insists the National League cannot expand at this time. A Wisconsin judge has ordered the Braves to stay in Milwaukee or for the league to expand in 1966 and make major league baseball of "competitive quality" available in Milwaukee.

Because of the expansion talk in all sports the manner of stocking a team becomes most important. When the NFL took in Dallas in 1960 and Minnesota in 1961 it froze a certain number of veterans and let the new teams pick three from each of the established clubs. A similar plan will be worked out for Atlanta.

With 45,000 season tickets already sold at Atlanta and new coach Norm Heckler anxious to come up with a representative team, there may be some surprising names on the lists of available players.

The owners must decide how many of their 40-man rosters to exempt or freeze. It is expected they will keep 30 or 32 out of the draft. That would give Atlanta three picks from the bottom eight or ten players on each team.

After they have agreed on a formula, probably Tuesday, the actual selections will be made Wednesday.

The Falcons have a strong base of rookies for they participated in the draft last November and signed 20 players.

The drafted and signed included linebacker Tommy Nobis, Texas A&M, Randy Johnson, Texas A&I, quarterback and halfbacks Nick Raskas and Bill Woiski and end Phil Sheridan of Notre Dame.

Porks Virtually Out of SWC Title Race

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —

Arkansas, virtually out of the race for the Southwest Conference basketball championship, tackles hapless Rice here Tuesday.

The Razorbacks, after a 82-71 licking by Baylor Saturday, will be trying to bring their conference record to 5-4.

Arkansas is tied with five other teams in the league for third place. The Razorbacks, Texas Tech, Baylor, Texas Christian and Texas all have 4-4 records.

Darrell Hardy scored 30 points Saturday in leading the Bears to their upset victory. Baylor led all the way until 20 seconds before the half when J. D. McConnell put Arkansas ahead with an eight-foot field goal.

Arkansas led in the second half until there was 14:45 remaining. Baylor went ahead 47-45 on a corner shot by Hardy and led the rest of the way.

Ricky Sugg was high scorer for Arkansas with 28 points.

Dickinson Is Leading the Phoenix Open

By BOB EGER

Associated Press Sports Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gully little Gardner Dickinson, pain pills in hand for his ailing back, set out today in quest of a victory in what may be his last golf tournament for some time—the $60,000 Phoenix Open.

Dickinson fought off the pain in his back and the charges of several contenders Sunday, and his even-par 71 gave him a three-stroke total of 206 and a three-stroke lead over Bob Rosburg.

"I almost called it quits after the second hole," said Dickinson, a 38-year-old, 130-pounder who plays out of Lost Tree Village, Fla.

"I took three pain killers before the round," he said. "The pain subsided a little, but the pills upset my stomach. I was very satisfied with the round under the circumstances."

Regardless of his fate in today's final round, Dickinson plans to leave the tour to have his back checked. "I can't go on like this, that's for sure," he said. "I'll just have to quit until the back is fixed."

Dickinson has carved out rounds of 66-69-71 over the 6,765-yard Phoenix Country Club course, a par 36-35-71 layout which most of the pros haven't solved.

Dickinson's steady round Sunday—a birdie and two bogeys on the front nine and a birdie on the back—withstood challenges by Rosburg and several others.

Mason Rudolph came the closest, drawing to within one stroke after Dickinson's bogeys on eight and nine. But Rudolph double bogeyed the par 3 13th and triple bogeyed the par 4 17th and finished with a 73 for 212.

Gene Littler came within two strokes but fell back to four at the end of the round. Littler lost a stroke when his caddy inadvertently stepped on his ball on the 16th fairway.

Littler was tied at 210 with Doug Sanders. Both have had identical rounds of 70-71-69.

Jack Rule stood alone at 211, and Dudley Wysong and Charles Coody were tied with Rudolph at 212.

Arnold Palmer, who has cooled off a bit from his torrid start on the winter tour, was 11 strokes off the pace going into today's final round. He has had rounds of 71-74-72.

The best scores Sunday were 67s by Terry Dill and Kermit Zarley. Dill and Dick Crawford were tied at 213, and Zarley was one of four players grouped at 215.

Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., used a two-iron to score a hole in one on the par 3, 230-yard eighth hole. It was the third ace of Still's career and his second in a little more than a year.

Pole Vault Goes Into Record Book

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A world record of 16 feet, 10 inches by pole-vaulter John Pennel went into the record book today, along with an upset finish in the featured two-mile run as an aftermath of the Los Angeles Times Indoor Games.

Many of the world famous track field athletes headed to the next big event on the winter indoor circuit, the New York Athletic Club meet Saturday night in Madison Square Garden.

Pennel supplied the world record last Saturday night before 13,477 fans when he bettered his own indoor mark of 16-9 1/2, made here last Jan. 22.

Pennel still hopes to become the first man to hit 17 feet indoors, just as he was the first to achieve the height outdoors.

"I feel that 17 feet is not far off for me indoors," said Pennel, adding, "I am shooting for 17.5 outdoors this summer."

Pennel, representing the Southern California Striders, failed in three attempts at 17 1/2.

Bill Baile, the slope - shouldered 31-year-old distance runner from New Zealand, was the surprise winner in the featured two-mile race.

He put on an unexpected burst of speed in the final three laps to beat out Australia's Ron Clarke, while well back in fifth place was Kenya's hero, Kipchoge Keino.

Baile's time was 8:37.4, Clarke's 3:38.4 and Keino's 8:40.7.

Third and fourth places went to Bob Day of CLA and Viktor Kudinskyl of Russia.

Keino, limping from a pulled muscle, said he would return to Kenya today but wants to run again in Southern California meets this summer. He seemed in doubt about coming back to America for the National Amateur Athletic Union meet in Albuquerque May 4.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Peeking Into Your Mail

Tipped off by a suspicious mailman, postal agents opened a packet which a woman mailed—first class—to her husband.

Sure enough, the packet contained illicit heroin. But when the woman was brought to trial on a narcotics charge, evidence of the find was thrown out of court and she went free.

The court was not being "soft" on narcotics. What troubled the court was the government's violation of the privacy of first class mail. Such an intrusion was held to be an "unreasonable search and seizure"—forbidden by the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution.

This Amendment grew out of colonial bitterness against the infamous "writs of assistance," under which British officials had free rein in searching private homes.

And, almost a century ago, the Supreme Court made it clear that the Amendment protects not only your residence but your first class mail as well. In the Court's words:

"The right of the people to be secure against unreasonable searches and seizures extends to their papers, thus closed against inspection, wherever they may be."

On the other hand, there is no such protection for mail other than first class. Furthermore, in the interest of combating crime, even first class mail may be searched if authorities first obtain a warrant. Then the search would not be "unreasonable," because the warrant would be issued only if there was reasonable ground to believe the law had been violated.

Moreover, the government may impose what is called a "mail watch" to help in tracking down wrongdoers. In this procedure, a record is kept of the name and return address of everyone who sends mail to the person under surveillance.

Not long ago the mail watch was challenged in court as at least a partial invasion of the privacy of first class mail. But the court upheld the government, saying:

"It was not prying into their secrets to note what the senders had made public on the face of the letters."

And there, generally speaking, is where the law draws the line today. The government may gather the information you place on the outside of an envelope, but must not peek within. That dab of mud on the flap, buttressed by the constitutional commandment, is one of the mightiest barriers on earth.

Mrs. Hall Announces For Reelection

Mrs. Nancy Hall

Little Rock, February 14th (Special)—Nancy (Mrs. Crip) Hall announced Monday for re-election as State Treasurer. Long identified with State politics, Mrs. Hall's announcement came as no surprise.

"When I first became State Treasurer, I came in under the slogan 'I'll be careful with your money,' Mrs. Hall said. "This office has been conducted in such a manner that I have carried out that promise. I seek re-election under the same slogan.

"Funds and securities handled by the State Treasury have increased from 128 Million Dollars when I first took office three years ago to 167 Million Dollars today. In addition, the Legislature of 1965 authorized investment of State surpluses to draw interest in State banks. It is estimated from the first six months of operation under this program, that the State will receive an additional One-half Million Dollars per year from this source.

"My assistants and I will continue to conduct the affairs of the State Treasurer's office for the benefit of all the people of the State."

First elected State Treasurer in 1962, Mrs. Hall is completing her second term in that office, the only woman ever elected to one of the seven State Constitutional offices. Previously she served one term as Secretary of State, filling by appointment the unexpired term of her husband, the late C. G. "Crip" Hall, who had been Secretary of State for over 24 years. During his tenure she served continuously as his Assistant so there is no question of her intimate knowledge of the State's business.

It Pays to Know About Blood's Marvelous Work

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Blood has been called the fluid tissue. The more we study it the more its marvelous functions are appreciated. Carrying oxygen to our tissues via the red cells was the first of its important functions to be discovered.

These same cells, with an assist from the plasma, also carry tissue wastes to the lungs, kidneys and skin to be eliminated in exhaled air, urine and sweat.

The white blood cells form an essential part of the body's defense system through their power to engulf invading bacteria. The platelets, smaller and more numerous than the white cells, are necessary to the clotting process.

The plasma or fluid part of the blood contains the nutrients which are the products of digestion—the amino acids derived from proteins, the glucose or blood sugar from complex sugars and starches, the lipids derived from fats and all the vitamins and minerals required in the process of metabolism. In addition the plasma contains hormones derived from the glands of internal secretion, protective antibodies against the germs of disease and, less fortunately, the antibodies involved in allergies.

Blood and plasma transfusions have saved millions of lives but blood can also be deadly because blood from a donor of the wrong ABO blood group can kill. Nine blood group systems are now recognized. The best known of these are the ABO and Rh groupings.

Knowing the blood type of a donor's blood may tell us at once that it is not acceptable for a given recipient, but it is not a reliable indication of acceptability. In addition to getting blood from a donor of the right ABO type it is necessary to test the blood by cross-matching—mixing a small portion of the blood of both donor and recipient and studying the mixture under the microscope. If the two bloods are incompatible there will be a clumping of the red cells.

The severe reaction (chills and cold sweats) that occurs in the recipient when such a donor's blood is used is due to the rapid destruction of the red cells that follows such clumping. Such incompatibility is often due to different blood types in one of the cases finding a compatible donor is a difficult problem. This is one reason for the maintenance of a large stock of banked blood in large hospitals.

These Four Veterans Were Lucky

By RICH OPPEL

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Beautiful coeds showed four veterans of combat in Viet Nam the town Friday night and then took them to swinging fraternity parties.

"These girls are mighty pretty," said one soldier. The campus beauties said the soldiers were pretty neat, too.

The curvy University of Florida coeds — together with about 300 other students — met the officers at the airport when they flew in from Ft. Bragg, N.C. The student carried signs supporting U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

"We're having a good time," said 19-year old Beatty Wendt of Coral Gables, Fla., a homecoming sweetheart last year. She and six or seven other beauties are weekend dates for the Viet Nam veterans.

The get-together, to be capped by a campus rally Monday night, is a student project called "Operation Appreciation" for the soldiers fighting in Viet Nam.

The lucky bachelors are: 1st Lt. William R. Hill, 22, Tampa-born resident of Kenosha, Wis.; 2nd Lt. Kenneth H. Carey, 24, of Green Cove Springs, Fla.; 2nd Lt. Edward W. Sinaio, 28, of Venice, Calif.; and 1st Lt. Orville J. Hengen, 23, of Rapid City, S.D.

Jean Salisbury, 20, former Miss University of Florida, dated Sinaio Friday night and found him "nice and funny."

Why funny?

"Well some of these students ask a lot of silly questions."

"One asked, 'How can you tell the Viet Cong from the South Vietnamese?' He said, 'They all wear Mao zed-tung T-shirts.'"

Hill, 22-year old company commander, says he wants to return to Viet Nam and probably will go back in June.

"I have but one thing to do — that's to back my President," he said.

The Bible and A Soldier's Life

By TOM TIEDE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BIEN HOA, Viet Nam — (NEA) — Don Parker never was much for religion.

He remembers the Sundays in Garland, N.C., when his mother would shake his mattress and tickle his feet trying to rouse him for church.

He'd open an eye, turn over and drift off again.

"Donald," she'd scold, "you'll be late for church again."

"Aw, ma!"

It wasn't that he didn't believe in God, exactly. It was just that "I never went for any of the praying stuff, that's all."

And when he left to join the 173d Airborne Division in Viet Nam, he shuffled the Bible his mother gave him into the bottom of the trunk and Playboy magazine on the top.

"You carry that Bible with you, boy," his mother had said. "It's God's words and it'll help protect you."

"Aw, ma!"

And he kissed her goodbye.

Don Parker, private first class, is 19, moderately tall, a good times kind of fellow. He likes kicks and chicks and a can of suds.

But the Bible?

"I didn't even think about that old book the first couple of weeks I was here," he says. "Then, one night, we got the word we were going on an operation—a tough one, they said, and that meant there would be some guys that wouldn't come back."

"I don't know why, but I got the Bible out and read a little the night before we left. It's hard to understand some of it, but I liked the words and they gave me some comfort because I was scared, man, real scared."

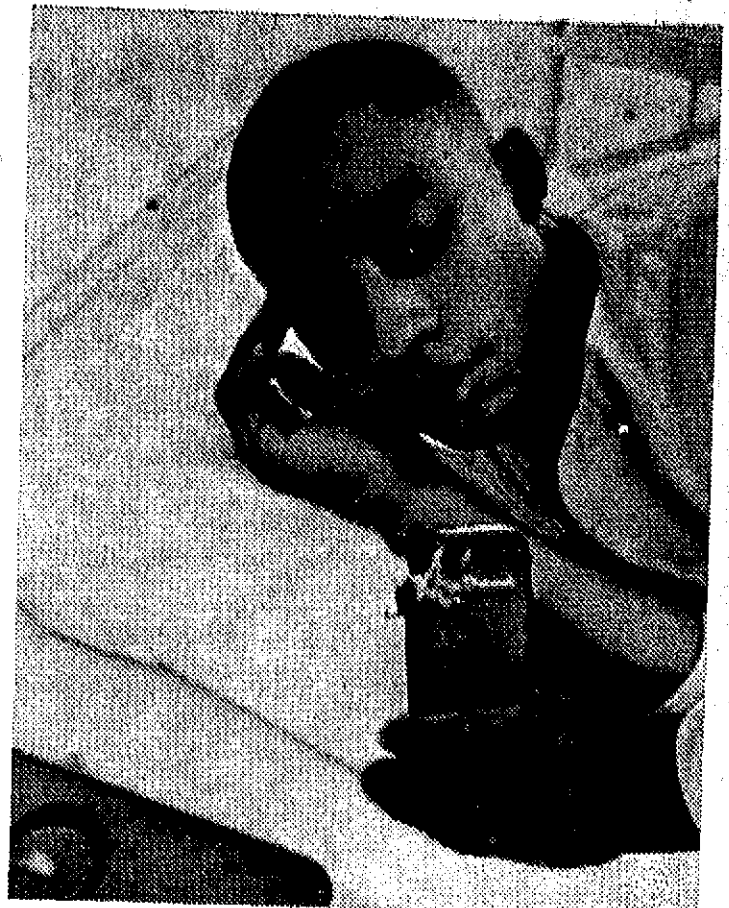

"Anyway, I decided to take it along. But I didn't want to put it in my shirt pocket where it might get wet, so I stuck it in the webbing of my helmet, on top of my head."

The next morning they moved out.

It's so dense with jungle tangle where they went, it gets dark an hour early. Mosquitos are big as birds, vines and venomous snakes, never-drying rot covering old footpaths and hiding all manner of booby traps.

And heat.

Private Parker was in the point squad. The first to fire, the first to fall. The enemy would open up and they'd hit the ground.

Then they'd get up, each man 10 years older, and move on. An hour, two hours and into late afternoon.

"I guess it was about 3:30 when it happened," says Parker. "It sounded like a shotgun . . . boom! About 20 yards from me. I dropped like a stone and all I could remember was the noise."

"Then I felt the blood running down my face. I wasn't even sure I was hit until I saw it. Man, it started to pour down. The medic didn't even recognize who I was. I figured I was dying for sure."

The assumption was logical. The bullet had entered the left side of Parker's head and made a clean exit on the right. His steel pot didn't even slow the bullet down. It should have taken the top of the man's skull off.

But it didn't. The Bible, lodged in the helmet, deflected the bullet. A few pages of paper had saved the soldier's life. God's words, his mother would have said.

FOOTLOOSE AND FANCY FREEWAY—

The increased draft is certain to grab up some of the younger stars. One may go soon — Gary Lewis, Jerry's No. 1 boy. And Jerry's reaction is that of any father. He's worried.

Jerry's youngest is 18-month-old Joseph, and Jerry proudly shows off his pictures to anybody within eyeshot.

"Is that a boy?" he says. "You know, I've taken a picture of him every morning of his life."

For that, you don't need an album—you need a library.

"I feel," James Mason told me, "that I have reached the pinnacle of the acting profession—I have been offered a part on Batman."

But he isn't going to take it. The reason?

"I've never been able to do American comedy. The few times I've tried, such as in 'The Marriage-Go-Round,' I was dreadful. American comedy is a very special thing, requiring a certain talent which I simply don't have."

Tom, the older Smothers Brother, was the one who was the guiding show business spirit. Dick had originally wanted to be a teacher.

"I'd still like to teach some day," Dick says. "My uncle blamed Tom for taking me out of school; he thought I should finish school first."

"And our whole family thought the night club world was full of depravity—drinking and wild women."

"They weren't far wrong at that."

The 15-year-old son of Cyd Charisse and Tony Martin is the latest to form a rock 'n' roll group . . . Hugh O'Brian thinks "Ambush Bay" is the best thing he's ever done—"I play a John Wayne character in it" . . . David McCallum, one of the hottest properties around, had his choice of 30 films for his vacation and picked one called "Three Bites of the Apple"—"I liked it because it was different" . . . Coming trend in pop music, according to insiders, is blues-rock music, replacing the folk-rock so popular now . . . Speaking of music, Herb Alpert (the Tijuana Brass boss) is being wooed to turn actor, he's that handsome.

Luciana Paluzzi discussed her social life frankly—she says she's going to wait a long time before she marries again.

"I'm scared," she says. "Not scared of being married, but of making another mistake."

"I married the first time when I was here, doing the Five Fingers series. I think I got married out of boredom. Also, because I was flattered."

"In Italy, because divorce is not considered, people wait a long time to get married; you can be engaged seven years. I was here a few days and I met Brett Halsey and four days later he asked me to marry him. I was so flattered. I thought this must be the greatest love affair since Romeo and Juliet."

"It wasn't."

Ruling Chills Enforcement Officers

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) - Law enforcement officers, fighting an uphill battle against crime, got some chilling news the other day from the Supreme Court.

The reason for the fingernail biting: the court is going to weigh the constitutionality of undercover agents getting the goods on narcotics peddlers in their own homes without search warrants.

It may not matter, when the justices hand down their decision, that dope pushers prefer to pursue their trade in their kitchens and garages.

What may matter very much is that the Fourth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution assures them - and all Americans - the right to be secure in their homes against "unreasonable searches and seizures."

And, in a practical sense, what certainly matters to federal narcotics agents and to local law officers across the land is the hundreds of arrests have been made under circumstances much like those in the case at hand - Duke Lee Lewis vs. the United States of America.

"Dope peddlers don't like to do their business in the open," explained a spokesman at the Federal Bureau of Narcotics. "They prefer the sanctity of their own home."

The spokesman, who discussed the attack on narcotics without commenting on the court's action, didn't have to explain why the federal agent who visited Lewis at his home in the Roxbury section of Boston in 1964 posed as a narcotics buyer.

If he had identified himself as a narcotics agent and produced a search warrant, no sale would have taken place and he would not have been invited back to buy more marijuana later. The agent did not have a search warrant.

Thus, the constitutional question is put squarely by Lewis' lawyer: "Can a federal officer avoid the necessity of obtaining a search warrant and gain entrance to the home of one suspected of a crime by disguising himself for the purpose of soliciting a crime and obtaining evidence to be used against the owner?"

When Lewis appealed his conviction under the federal narcotics law to the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston three judges flatly rejected his Fourth Amendment argument.

"The happy days for law violators that this claim would produce are not to be," they said.

But the Supreme Court, which has ruled on several Fourth Amendment cases with mixed results, may use the Lewis case as a vehicle for giving greater strength to this Bill of Rights protection.

The unlucky expert will star in this week's columns. If you play bridge at all you will know one of his prototypes - the man who never makes a mistake but always loses.

Sometimes he is really unlucky, as with today's hand. Other times he helps out his own bad luck by making things difficult for his partner but, somehow or other, something bad always happens to him. Here is his story for today.

"Things were going pretty well. I had won one rubber and with both sides vulnerable in the second I picked up a nice hand. Nothing sensational, but a comfortable 13 high-card points plus a couple of tens. When my partner responded to my diamond opening with one heart, then jumped to three clubs, I bid a confident three no-trump and was only slightly disturbed when he took out to four clubs. This forced me to try four hearts. He jumped to six and I still wasn't really unhappy. My hand was certainly sound."

We looked over the hand and remarked that six hearts seemed rather safe.

"Not the way my partner played it. He won the spade opening and promptly cashed the ace and king of clubs. The queen dropped and he smiled sweetly and spread his hand, announcing that he would play trumps and the defense could take their ace when ready."

"Play," said West. My partner led a trump toward my jack and returned to his king. West took the ace and gave his partner a club ruff. Down one."

Our friend really was unlucky. South would have ruffed a third club and made the hand if the queen had not dropped. He should have ruffed it anyway. This would have insured his contract.

No Help From NATO Whatever Happened to John Profumo?

For Viet War

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It is a sad fact that none of the NATO nations has responded to the plea of Secretary of State Dean Rusk for help to fight the undeclared war in Viet Nam.

Yet it is a historic truth—and a historic irony—that had it not been for the United States intervention in the fight against Hitler and massive American economic aid after the war, Western Europe would find itself today in the same tragic plight as Viet Nam.

President Johnson and his diplomatic envoys have repeatedly called on the European allies not to confine themselves to sterile statements about the need of peace and liberty for the Vietnamese people. They have urged NATO members to undertake practical measures to show that peace, liberty and the struggle against aggressive communism are indivisible.

At the last meeting of NATO's Council held in Paris the U.S. representative, Harlan Cleveland, even told the Europeans that "practical aid" does not necessarily mean troops and military equipment. It could be medical aid or economic assistance to the embattled South Vietnamese.

So far, unfortunately, all American requests have fallen on deaf ears.

French President de Gaulle has made it clear that he is neutral in the Viet Nam conflict. Britain's Labor government—plagued by its own lunatic fringe of professors, intellectuals and publicity-seeking politics—remains on the sidelines. To be sure, the Britons, like the Italians or Belgians, also utter occasional pious statements about the need for peace in Southeast Asia.

West Germany, the richest country in Europe, has sent $15 million in economic aid to South Viet Nam and also decided to send a hospital ship to Saigon.

And yet the West Germans grow panicky whenever a suggestion is made that the Johnson administration might withdraw American troops from Europe. They concede that their very existence as an independent nation depends on the presence of American manpower and weapons on German soil.

Even President de Gaulle, despite his mischievous policies, would not assume his posture of an independent statesman were he not certain of the ever-present protection of the United States "nuclear umbrella."

Top United States officials are said to feel that President Johnson's recent diplomatic peace offensive convinced much of the world opinion of the sincerity of American peace efforts. But of what earthly use is such conviction if it is not translated into practical measures?

LONDON—(N E A)—John Profumo, former Cabinet minister and storm center of Britain's biggest postwar political scandal, is quietly building a new reputation for himself as an unpaid charity fund raiser.

Profumo was forced to resign as Britain's Secretary of State for War in June, 1963, after it became known that he and the Soviet assistant naval attaché had befriended call girl Miss Christine Keeler.

The "Profumo Affair" nearly brought down the Conservative government of the day. Profumo was forced to resign not only as war minister, but as a member of Parliament as well. He was politically washed up.

But the ex-Cabinet minister has since transferred his energies from politics to "dogooder" causes. Specifically, he is the driving force behind a campaign to raise $500,000 for Toynbee Hall, the social welfare center for London's East End slums. So far, more than half of the welfare center's goal has been collected.

Profumo has sought no personal publicity for his volunteer work. In fact, he refuses to give interviews to the press. Nevertheless, there is publicity and praise for his work at Toynbee Hall.

"Without Mr. Profumo, we should never have got anywhere," says Walter Birmingham, warden of the welfare center.

Now, less than three years after the scandal reached its international acme, most of the principals are all but forgotten. The scars and heart-break remain. Western security questions linger.

Capt. Eugene Ivanov, the Soviet naval attaché, was recalled to Russia and hasn't been heard of since. Miss Keeler recently married. Mandy Rice-Davies, another PROFUMO AND FRIEND: When Prime Minister Harold Wilson visited Toynbee Hall, he didn't mind taking tea and chatting with the once-powerful Profumo.

More recently, Walter Birmingham discloses, Profumo spent five days researching at the Charity Commissioners' office, returning with a list of people and institutions to whom Toynbee Hall could apply for funds.

Founded in 1884, Toynbee Hall quickly became the center of social welfare activities in East London, attracting the attention of social reformers such as Clement Attlee, Stanley Baldwin, Lloyd George and George Bernard Shaw.

Since World War II, however, the Toynbee Hall complex has fallen on bad times. Its buildings, partially destroyed in the German blitz, are run-down.

What's left is used as the East End legal advice center, as a lecture hall, an arts society and as a meeting place for Alcoholics Anonymous, civil rights groups, the elderly and the young.

There is a drastic need, says Birmingham, for Toynbee Hall to flourish again, as it did for more than half a century. It is a small but important institution through which London East Enders can regain what they have lost, or discover things they've never known.

struggle against aggressive communism are indivisible.

At the last meeting of NATO's Council held in Paris the U.S. representative, Harlan Cleveland, even told the Europeans that "practical aid" does not necessarily mean troops and military equipment. It could be medical aid or economic assistance to the embattled South Vietnamese.

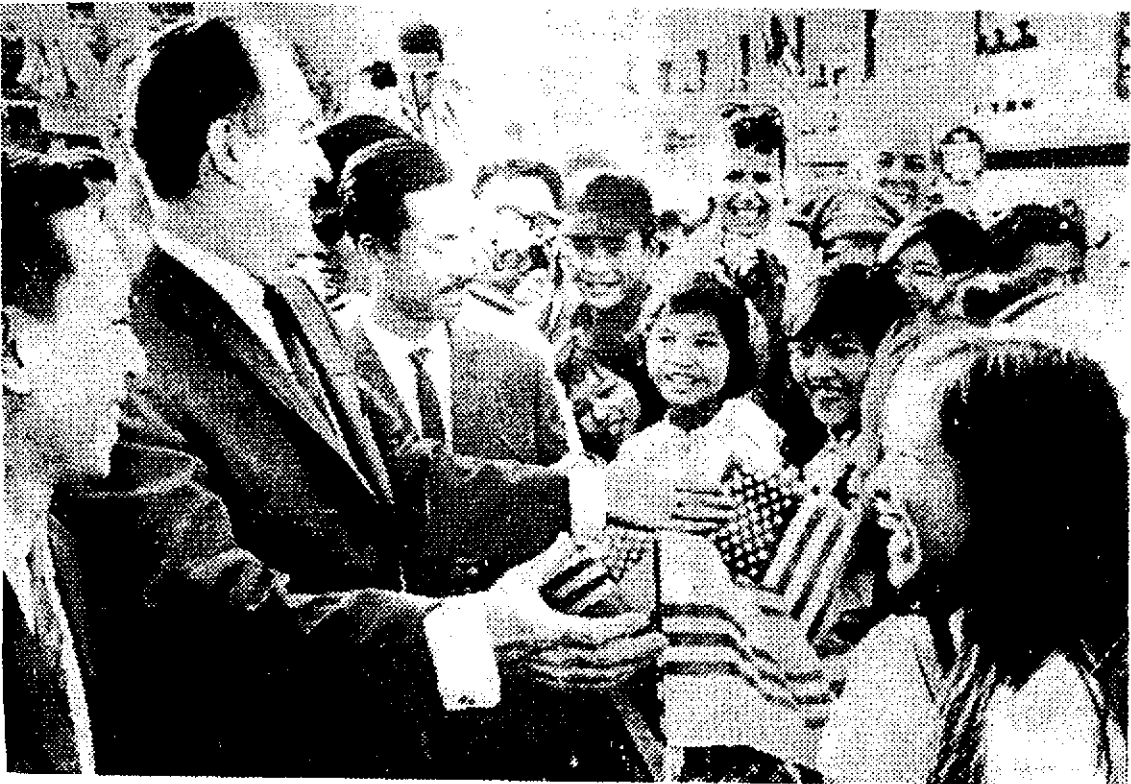

So far, unfortunately, all American requests have fallen on deaf ears.

French President de Gaulle has made it clear that he is neutral in the Viet Nam conflict. Britain's Labor government—plagued by its own lunatic fringe of professors, intellectuals and publicity-seeking polipragmatic and realistic politician. Has not the time come for him to tell the NATO nations, which achieved their current economic prosperity with American help, that they are now big and strong boys who should be able to stand on their own feet?

If Europe's politicians consider the conflict in Viet Nam as strictly an American problem, let them defend Europe against Russia without United States help. America will then be able to devote its manpower and resources to the war in Southeast Asia.

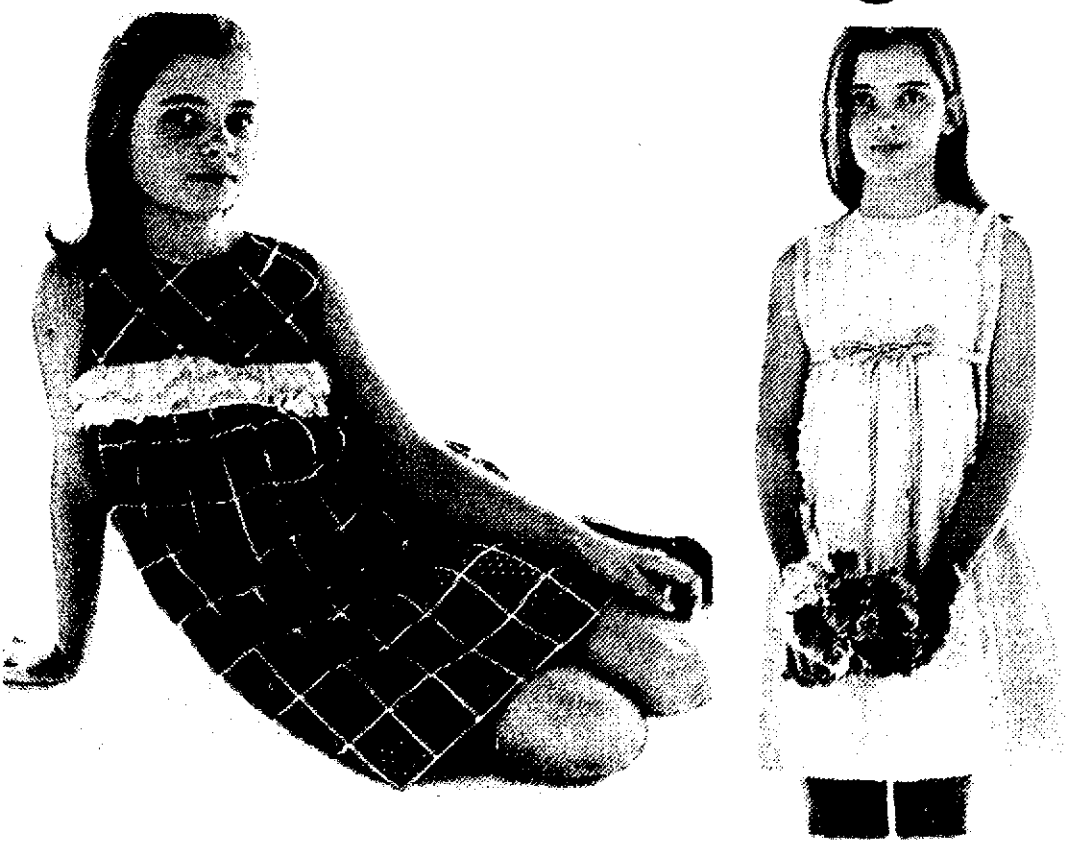

The day has long since passed when the United States can or should be the defender against communism of the whole globe.

River Barge Tax? But Transportation Affects Everyone

I make haste to disagree with my friend Louis Graves who writes in his Nashville News that he believes President Johnson is right in advocating a fuel tax on the tow-boats that handle freight barges on navigable rivers. "Let the User Pay," says Editor Graves.

The gist of Mr. Graves' argument is this:

"It may be the good fortune of some industrial cities to be located convenient to barge systems, but they should pay for it, not the cities removed. Why should tax dollars paid in by residents away from the barge-hearing rivers be obligated to help pay for a freight advantage for cities beside the waters?"

Our Nashville friend is logical and persuasive, and it is true that asking the user to pay for a service from which he benefits is generally fair — but the economic facts are entirely against him when he attempts to apply this theory to transportation... whether water or rail.

Some years ago when sugar was being shipped regularly from New Orleans to Camden by Ouachita steamers and barges the effect was to cut railroad freight rates on sugar hauled into Hope and Nashville to 25c per hundredweight. The presence of a water-delivered freight rate at Camden compelled the railroads to establish competitive rates for 60 to 100 miles around.

Not only Camden, on the river, benefited from cheap river transport, but equal benefits were obtained by Hope and Nashville, although many miles from the Ouachita.

"Let the user pay" generally means most of us when you are talking about tax-free river transport, and if the cities actually on navigable rivers would be hurt by a tax on barge tow-boat fuel so would all the rest of us in the neighborhood be hurt.

Transportation is a far-reaching economic force. Hope is on the main line of the Missouri Pacific. Nashville is not. But everyone recognizes that if a punitive tax were slapped on the Missouri Pacific main line Nashville and every other town with a branch connection would feel the tax as quickly as Hope would.

The founders of our country recognized this universal quality in transportation from the beginning. They subsidized the early railroads with vast land grants, knowing that all towns and areas would benefit whether immediately on some rail line or not — in cheaper freight for the necessities of life.

Also, ever since Colonial days, it has been established federal policy to forbid any tax whatever on river transportation.

Otherwise, Mr. Graves, what price tomorrow for sugar?

Tornado-like Winds Strike in the South

Mrs. Mossler Expected in Court

By ARTHUR EVERETT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blonde Candace Mossler was expected to rejoin her nephew Melvin Lane Powers, in court today, as the state pushes toward an end to its first-degree murder case against them.

Suffering from nerves, tension and migraine headache, Mrs. Mossler was unable to make it to court last Friday. Judge George Schulz recessed the trial for the weekend, with medical assurance that she would be back today.

One of the first scheduled witnesses in the fifth week of the sensational trial is Arthur Grimsley, a convict from the Arkansas State Penitentiary — the second prison inmate on a bizarre state of state witnesses.

Grimsley is expected to support a prosecution claim that Powers and his aunt shopped around for a hired killer to do away with her husband Jacques Mossler, 69, head of a $33-million banking and loan empire.

Billy Frank Mulvey, 35, serving a life term in the Texas State Penitentiary, was brought to court earlier in the case. He testified that Mrs. Mossler gave him a $7,000 down payment in 1962 to kill her husband, but that he spent the money and never went through with the deal.

The chic Mrs. Mossler, who gives her age as 39, and her 6-foot-3 nephew, 29, are accused of premeditated design to kill her husband, to achieve access to his money, and to further an illicit love affair. The maximum penalty upon conviction is death.

Mossler was bludgeoned and stabbed with a knife 39 times in his Key Biscayne apartment June 30, 1964. Unable to obtain a hired killer, the state says Powers performed the slaying himself, during his aunt's planned absence.

Tactical Air Command Headquarters here said that the troop carrier units will be brought to Blytheville from Sewart AFB, Tenn., which will close by July 1970.

TAC said the bombers and tankers at Blytheville will be relocated to other Strategic Air Command bases.

It said that the base will continue at the same activity level and population after the change.

Bomb Search May Have Cost 8 Lives

PALOMARES BEACH, Spain (AP) — The search for the U.S. nuclear bomb missing off the coast of Spain is believed to have cost an Air Force Globemaster and the lives of eight Americans aboard.

The giant C124, based at Hurler Air Force Base, Ga., has been missing since it left Seville Saturday night carrying two buses for use by bomb searchers here on the southern coast.

Spanish Civil Guards and civilian volunteers resumed the search for the plane early today after camping out in the snowy Sierra Nevada mountains.

A day-long search Sunday by ground and air teams, hampered by a bitter winter storm, failed to turn up any definite clues.

"It would be a miracle if anyone emerged alive from this one," said a Spanish air force officer who had scanned the jagged mountain range without spotting any trace of wreckage.

Villagers reported they had seen lights and heard an explosion on 11,423-foot Pico Mulhacen, one of Spain's tallest mountains, about the time the Globemaster was scheduled to fly over the area. Civil Guards began climbing the mountain to check.

Volunteers and two Civil Guards from the village of Trovez reportedly found a meal plate which appeared to be the door of a plane and fragments of burned cardboard about at the snow line.

U.S. Navy planes searched parts of the Mediterranean past the plane's destination. Most officials, however, believed that strong winds blew the plane off course and it crashed in the mountains.

icy winds from the mountains churned the Mediterranean Sunday and postponed morning operations of two midget submarines sent from the United States to look for the lost bomb.

The subs waited until the winds eased off in the afternoon, then made some dives. The bomb was lost Jan. 17 in the collision and crash of a B52 bomber and its jet tanker.

Headquarters of the 16th U.S. Air Force said the crewmen aboard the missing plane were Capt. William T. Cornwell Jr., commander; 1st Lt. John F. Arceneaux, Supreme, La., second pilot; Capt. James P. Cisco, Milwaukee, Wis., navigator; Sgt. Donald G. Gallitzin, Cleveland, Ohio, flight engineer; Sgt. James W. Thompson, Mill Spring, N.C., flight engineer; Sgt. Ronald W. Hickman, Portland, Ore., loadmaster; Sgt. Charles R. Anderson, Tacoma, Wash., and Airman 2C Kenneth C. Young, Butler, Pa.

Wouldn't Want Another 100

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — One twin turned to the other and said: "I just wouldn't want to live another hundred years."

The other agreed.

But today Sarah and Mattie Duckworth are on their way to doing just that. They celebrated their 100th birthday Thursday at the Bard Convalescent Home.

The only living one of their generation, a brother, Donald, couldn't get to the party. Donald, 95, still is in Mt. Vernon, Ind., where the twins and 11 other Duckworth children were born and raised.

Sarah, still spry and wry, left the wheelchair to walk around the room with her 73-year-old son, O.U. Hampton, of Del Mar. Asked by a newsmen recently if they were looking forward to more birthdays, Sarah replied: "Ain't that enough?"

Be Firm Is Best Policy, Says Barry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona says an American demonstration of determination — and not what he calls "groveling" peace offensives — will bring Communist North Viet Nam to the conference table.

"I don't think it's our job to get the Communists to the conference table by begging, by going through other leaders," the 1960 Republican presidential candidate said Sunday on ABC's radio-television program "Issues and Answers."

"I think we'll get the Hanoi government to the conference table when we convince them that we have the will to attack and that we are attacking them," Goldwater said.

"It is a very sad spectacle to see the greatest power on earth sort of groveling," he added.

President Johnson's peace offensive — and its failure thus far — brought these other top weekend developments:

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., proposed that Johnson invite the participants in the 1954 Geneva conference to meet again to discuss a settlement in the Viet Nam war.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former ambassador to Saigon, said the probability is "quite low" that increased military pressure by the United States in Viet Nam would lead to a confrontation with Red China.

Administration officials reported that the United States has started black-listing non-Communist and Polish ships. Goldwater coupled his first trade with North Viet Nam, public attack on Johnson's peace offensive with another plea for more reliance on U.S. air power and less reliance on American ground troops.

"We should use air power and rely on our allies and South Vietnamese for ground fighting," he said. "Our boys are not acclimated to that type of fighting."

He repeated his suggestions that air power should be used to attack the industrial complexes in North Viet Nam, bomb railroads and destroy the Ho Chi Minh Trail and said North Viet Nam's ports could be shut down by mining them or sinking ships in them.

Goldwater, a general in the Air Force Reserve, also renewed his attack on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He said more authority for the direction of the fighting should be given to "military people who have spent their lives studying the problems of strategy."

"I think men like the secretary of defense," Goldwater said, "should be removed completely from any part of this war other than the logistic part."

Gen. Taylor credited his conclusion that Red China is not likely to enter into war with the United States to the massive U.S. air power.

He said the situation in Viet Nam is similar to that during the Korean War.

"Our air power has been belittled for its performance in Korea because it didn't stop the war," he explained. "It didn't stop the war, but it put a ceiling on the war."

There were at least a million more armed Chinese north of the Yalu (River) who never came into action because they could not be supported on the front under the pressure from the air."

Buses Mined by Viet Cong, 54 Are Killed

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong mined three buses today, killing 54 Vietnamese civilians and wounding 18 in retaliation for an Allied operation that is rescuing a huge rice harvest.

Allied ground forces reported killing 150 Viet Cong in scattered clashes elsewhere in South Viet Nam in the past 24 hours, while U.S. planes hammered Communist targets in North and South Viet Nam. Guerrillas overran an outpost in the Mekong Delta, at Dinh Mon, and killed or captured all 11 defenders.

The death-dealing Viet Cong mines were set off on a road 10 miles southwest of Tuy Hoa, on the central coast where the U.S. 101st Airborne, South Korean marines and South Vietnamese troops have been scouring the countryside for several weeks while the rice was being harvested.

An American spokesman said the first blast was touched off about 7:30 a.m., catching a busload of farmers and killing 27 and wounding 11.

"The explosion left a crater nine feet deep in the road, hurled the bus into a canal and scattered bodies along the roadside."

About an hour and a half later, the spokesman continued, a three-wheel vehicle used as a bus and jammed with passengers drove along the same stretch of road and touched off a second mine. Another 20 Vietnamese were killed and seven wounded.

An hour and a half later a second three-wheel bus drove onto the scene and set off a third mine. This time seven persons were reported killed.

Stassen Re-enters Political Field

Stassen, 67, said he will be a candidate for the Pennsylvania Republican gubernatorial nomination. He lost out in the running in 1958.

Stassen served three terms as governor of Minnesota in the late 1930s and early 1940s.

Since then he has suffered numerous political setbacks, but he says defeat only toughens his fiber.
